BBC abridged article and vocab notes

Members of the European Parliament have overwhelmingly backed <sup>3</sup> the terms of the UK's departure from the EU. MEPs ratified the Brexit Withdrawal Agreement <sup>4</sup> by 621 votes to 49 following an emotional debate in Brussels. [...]

The UK is due to leave the bloc <sup>5</sup> at 23:00 GMT on Friday. Ratification of the withdrawal agreement, agreed by the UK and EU in October, was not in doubt after it easily cleared its committee stage last week.

Signing the letter confirming the EU's consent, the Parliament's president, David Sassoli, said the two sides must heed <sup>6</sup> the words of the late Labour MP Jo Cox <sup>7</sup> when approaching their future relationship and recognise "there is more that unites us than divides us. You are leaving the EU but you will always be part of Europe. It is very hard to say goodbye. That is why, like my colleagues, I will say arrivederci." [...]

After the UK leaves, there will be an 11-month transition period in which the two sides hope to negotiate their future economic relationship. Trade talks <sup>8</sup> are expected to begin in earnest <sup>9</sup> in early March. The European Parliament will also get a say <sup>10</sup> in ratifying any future trade deal <sup>11</sup>.

The UK has insisted talks should not extend beyond <sup>12</sup> 31 December 2020 when a transition period - which will see the UK follow EU rules - comes to an end.

President Sassoli told CNN on Tuesday that the timetable for a deal was tight <sup>13</sup>. He said the UK's exit would be "painful" for the bloc but building a new partnership based upon friendly co-operation and mutual interests was now essential.
